Re: Rosemary Bellini and Palma Incherchera v.
Sumitomo Corp. of America - 86 Civ. 2975 (CHT)

Dear Mr. Hiestand:

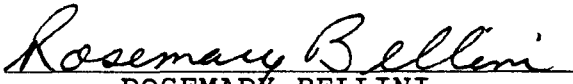

This is to confirm that our clients, Rosemary Bellini and Palma Incherchera, recognize their obligation to treat with confidence the terms of their individual settlements in the above referenced case. They recognize that the element of confidence was an important consideration on the part of SCOA when it entered into these settlements.

Both Ms. Bellini and Ms. Incherchera agree that they will not discuss the terms of their individual settlements in the above referenced case unless required to do so within the framework of a legal proceeding.

In addition, Ms. Bellini and Ms. Incherchera, as class representatives in the class actions which are being simultaneously resolved with their matter, confirm that they have reviewed the proposed settlement decree and believe that it represents a fair resolution of these cases and will support the proposed decree.
