

10-19-2010

Gaming the World: A Discussion with Professor Andrei Markovits

New York Law School

Institute for INFORMATION LAW & POLICY
at New York Law School

and

New York Law School
Sports Law Society

is pleased to present:

Gaming the World: A Discussion with Professor Andrei Markovits

Introduction by Professor Beth Simone Noveck

Professor Andrei Markovits is currently Arthur F. Thurnau Professor, and Karl W. Deutsch Collegiate Professor of Comparative Politics and German Studies, at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. Professor Markovits, a world-renowned scholar, will speak about his latest work titled, Gaming the World: How Sports Are Reshaping Global Politics and Culture (Princeton University Press, 2010).

Tuesday, October 19, 2010

6:00 p.m.—8:00 p.m.

W203

ABOUT THE BOOK:

Professional sports today have truly become a global force, a common language that anybody, regardless of their nationality, can understand. Yet sports also remain distinctly local, with regional teams and the fiercely loyal local fans that follow them. Gaming the World examines the 21st century phenomenon of global sports, in which professional teams and their players have become agents of globalization, while at the same time fostering deep-seated and antagonistic local allegiances, and spawning new forms of cultural conflict and prejudice.

RSVP to naomi.allen@nyls.edu by October 8, 2010.

