

9-24-2009

Patently Professional: A Panel on Careers in Patent Law

New York Law School

Institute for INFORMATION
LAW & POLICY
at New York Law School

is excited to announce

Patently Professional: A Panel on Careers in Patent Law

Thursday, September 24, 2009

Room C400

6:00 p.m.—8:00 p.m.

Do you have a background in science or technology? Are you looking for a career working with cutting edge innovations? Come to the IILP's panel on careers in patent law and learn what it takes to find a job in the field.

Recent times have witnessed an explosion in the field of patent law. New developments in the law generate a constant need for lawyers with specialized backgrounds, both in the Patent and Trademark Office and in private and corporate practice. Even when other markets for the services of lawyers are affected by recession, the demand for patent attorneys typically remains high. As long as people invent or create, there is a need for intellectual property lawyers to protect and enforce intellectual property rights.

Students are invited to attend a panel featuring New York Law School alumni currently working in the field of patent law. Students will have the opportunity to engage in discussion with panelists regarding their current employment and the different paths they took to get there.

If you are interested in attending, RSVP to Naomi Allen at naomi.allen@nyls.edu.

