Women in Technology Breakfast Panel

New York Law School

WE ARE NEW YORK'S LAW SCHOOL

The Institute for Information Law and Policy and the NYLS Women's Network are pleased to present:

Women in Technology Breakfast Panel

Wednesday, April 16, 2014

8:30 a.m. – 10:00 a.m.

185 West Broadway, Second Floor Events Center

The Women in Technology breakfast brings together leading women who stand at the intersection of the law and technology industries, highlighting the myths, opportunities, and challenges of breaking in. As a part of the new NYLS Women's Network initiative, our panel will focus on encouraging diversity, facilitating networking relationships, and providing mentorship opportunities to engage students and attorneys who are interested in law and technology.

Panelists:

Karen L. Illuzzi Gallinari '88, Director of Regulatory Affairs for Medical Research, Montefiore Medical Center

Patrice Jean, Ph.D., Partner, Kenyon & Kenyon LLP

Carole Post, Esq., Executive Vice President and Chief Strategy Officer, New York Law School

Jennifer Shaw, Founder, NYTechWomen

About the NYLS Women's Network:

The goal of the new NYLS Women's Network is to foster professional development and leadership among our women alumni, students, faculty and staff. In support of this goal, we offer programming designed to foster personal and professional growth and to provide opportunities for participants to meet, learn, share their experiences and network. The Network welcomes all members of the NYLS community to participate in programs and activities.

Breakfast will be served.
