

2021

Family Law during COVID-19: Virtual Hearings, Family Court Proceedings, and the Future: Editors' Notes

Lisa Grumet

Follow this and additional works at: https://digitalcommons.nyls.edu/fac_articles_chapters

Part of the Family Law Commons, and the Health Law and Policy Commons

Editors' Notes

From the Editor in Chief

This issue is the first of two Family Law Quarterly issues concerning family law and COVID-19. After a year of considerable hardship, we are glad to present this issue at a time when vaccinations are well underway in the United States, and it is possible to consider a post-pandemic world. Thank you to authors Professor Elizabeth G. Thornburg, retired Judge Lynda B. Munro, Nicole M. Riel, Professor Robert G. Spector, and Melissa A. Kucinski and to Issue Editor Samuel Schoonmaker for their wonderful contributions to this issue and to the first FLQ virtual symposium event, Family Law During COVID-19: Virtual Hearings, Family Court Proceedings, and the Future, which took place on April 8, 2021. Thank you as well to Family Law Section Chair Michael Mosberg and all members of the FLQ Board of Editors for their vision, leadership, and support. Thank you also to Managing Editor Lisa V. Comforty; to ABA Designer Betsy Kulak and proofreader Betsy Blumenthal; and to ABA Family Law Section Director Cindy Swan, Program Specialist Danielle Pruger, and Program Associate Ann Mullen. Additionally, thank you to our readers and symposium attendees for your interest, support, and feedback in these challenging times.

I would like to reserve the remainder of this space for Aliyah Polner, who is the inaugural Student Editor in Chief at New York Law School (NYLS). Congratulations to Aliyah and to all NYLS Editorial Board members, Senior Editors, and Junior Editors for remarkable work in this publication's first year at NYLS; and thank you to NYLS Dean Anthony W. Crowell, Associate Dean William LaPiana, and Diane and Arthur Abbey, for making this work possible.

All my best,
Lisa F. Grumet
May 2021

Faculty Editor/Editor in Chief
Family Law Quarterly
Visiting Associate Professor of Law, New York Law School
lisa.grumet@nyls.edu